CARTE POSTALE. POSTKARTE.

By Appointment.

The Spoorbrug is one of the many splendid bridges which are an absolute necessity in a town such as Rotterdam, to conduct the various roads and railways across the numerous canals and waterways. Some of these bridges are magnificent structures with road and railways across them, and being constructed on the principle known as swing-bridges, the busy ocean traffic on the river and water below is in no way impeded by the low level which the surface of the land demands in their construction.
